

Gabriele M. Ganswindt, Dipl. Psych.

Gabriele is founder and president of Shared Learning International (SLI), an international consultancy focusing on Noble Leadership development and organizational excellence. As a German-American, she partners with leaders of both European and US organizations to support results oriented, life-affirming leadership that serve a noble purpose. Gabriele and her team serve clients in the roles of executive coach and trusted advisor, designer and facilitator of a wide range of strategic leadership development initiatives as well as large-scale organizational and cultural transformation efforts. She serves C-suite and senior executives globally with a multi-cultural approach that integrates multiple disciplines and approaches. Gabriele has extensive experience in the healthcare, transportation, biotech and pharmaceutical industries.

Prior to founding SLI Gabriele was director of the leadership practice at ODI, an international TQM and change management firm. She designed and implemented multiple leadership and TQM deployment programs for clients worldwide. She also was in charge of the 200+ international bench of consultants and trained international partner firms in all of ODI's offerings. Following 9/11, she headed the Global Resiliency Network – promoting research and applied leadership in the field of organizational and leadership resiliency. She serves as master coach, supervisor, and adjunct faculty member in William-James College Executive Coaching Program. She is a frequent keynote speaker on topics related to leadership, resiliency, and executive coaching in a turbulent world. Her ideal client engagements combine both individual and leadership team coaching with system wide interventions. Her current focus is to foster NOBLE Leadership, Living and Legacy during turbulent times within her clients, their teams and organizations. www.sharedlearningint.com
